- 6.3 For the test papers with grid type subjects, no differences between the points awarded by the two examiners are allowed.
- 6.4 When correcting the test papers based on traditional subjects, differences of more than one point are not accepted between the grades given by the two correctors, for each subject separately. In the event that between the grades given for a subject there are differences of more than one point, the work will be distributed to another examiner (examiner 3), who will establish the final grade for the subject concerned.
- 6.5 The number of admitted candidates depends on the number of places approved for each faculty, the undergraduate field and the study program.
- 6.6 The general average grades obtained by the candidates in the competition are used to establish the ranking order valid only for the faculty to which they registered and applied as opted for in the application form.
- 6.7 The minimum general average necessary for the admission to university education is 5.00 for the bachelor's degree and 6.00 for the master's degree. Also, the minimum grade for each test paper may not be lower than 5.00.
- 6.8 The admission on the places financed from the state budget or on self-financed tuition places is strictly limited to the places established by order of the relevant ministry and the University's Executive Board.
 - (i) In case there are several candidates with an equal average competing for the last place, the separation shall be made according to the criteria established by the Faculty Admission Committee. The separation criteria will be displayed on the notice boards of the Faculty Admission Committees and on the web pages of the faculties.
 - (ii) If the grades for all the criteria of separation are equal, the Faculty Admission Committee will rank the respective candidates according to the annual average grades obtained by them at the end of each high school year in descending order (12th, 11th, 10th, 9th grade). This information will be requested from the candidates when there is a need to apply these additional criteria.
- 6.9 Specifications regarding the distribution of candidates sitting for the places financed from the state budget and for the self-financed places:
 - (i) The places financed from the state budget and the self-financed places shall be occupied in several distinct phases, as follows:
 - In phase I, the places with or without tuition fees shall be allotted per faculty, per undergraduate fields and study programmes within the same faculty, according to the options expressed by the candidate in the application form. These places shall be allotted in descending order of the general average grades, or in descending order of the general average grades and of the options expressed in the application form.

- In the other phases, the remaining vacant places following the withdrawal of some of the candidates who were declared admitted in the previous phase will be occupied within each faculty and study program. These places will be occupied according to the formula of the first phase.

(ii) After the end of the first session, the faculties that did not complete the places open for the competition may organize the second admission session.

(iii) Upon registration of the application, candidates shall fill in a contract regarding the procedure of registration and selection of the candidates for the admission competition (hereinafter called – candidate’s admission contract), which specifies the admitted candidates’ obligations to complete the application by specifying their option to remain either on places with or without tuition fee.

6.9’ By way of exception, for the 2020 admission competition, the candidate’s admission contract and the study contract, as the case may be, will be signed by the candidate and uploaded on the admission platform, according to the schedule of the admission calendar. The candidate needs to commit to submitting the contracts in the original to the faculty at the beginning of the academic year 2020-2021.

6.10 The results of the admission competition, verified and approved by the University Admission Committee, are displayed publicly. The date and time are specified.

6.11 If scores are used to evaluate the test papers, the scores shall be converted into grades from 1 to 10.

7 Receiving and resolving appeals

7.1 The University is the authority exclusively in charge of solving appeals according to this Methodology. The resolution of the litigations regarding the content of the test assignments, of the grading scales, as well as all the aspects regarding the application of the competition methodology is the duty of the University Admission Committee and the Executive Board exclusively. They are the only ones able to analyse and decide on the solutions to be adopted in each case, based on the faculties’ documents.

In the bachelor’s degree programmes of the Faculty of Medicine, the complaints regarding the content of the written questions or the correctness of the official answer grid shall be registered with the Admission Committee of the Faculty of Medicine and shall be submitted within two hours from the completion of the written test. After this deadline, it is no longer possible to change the content of the questions or the correctness of the official answer grid.

By way of exception, if the examination takes place online, for the 2020 admission competition, the appeals may be submitted online, using the faculty’s institutional account (respectively f-md@unitbv.ro).

The complaints regarding the content of the written questions or the correctness of the official answer grid shall be analysed by a committee of specialists. The decision of this committee is final and will be posted on the faculty’s website and displayed on the faculty’s notice board.

If, following complaints about the content of the questions or the correctness of the official answer grid, the committee considers that there are questions that have formulation flaws, these questions shall be cancelled (the decision is to be recorded in a report signed by all the working group leaders). The cancellation of the questions leads to awarding the points related to them to all the candidates.

7.2 The appeals regarding the results of the written tests are submitted to the Faculty Admission Committee within a maximum of 24 hours from the date and time the results are posted, during the work programme of the faculty secretariats.

The deadline for submitting the appeals shall be specified by the Faculty Admissions Committee expressly, when the results are displayed. The result of the appeals shall be communicated in writing on the admission notice board, no later than 24 hours after the end of the deadline for submitting the appeals.

- 7.3 The test papers whose grading was contested by the candidates shall be sealed and re-corrected by the Committee for Appeals, appointed by order of the President of the University Admission Committee. The scoring report shall be handed over to the Faculty Admission Committee, and its President shall submit it to the University Admission Committee for verification, approval and for ordering the display of the result. After the endorsement by the Central Admission Committee has been obtained, the Faculty Admission Committee shall communicate, by posting, the results of the appeals.
- 7.4 In cases of favourable resolution of the appeal, the President of the Faculty Admission Committee will also have to convene the initial examiners who, together with the members of the Committee for Appeals, shall establish the final grade of the paper; it will be recorded in a consensus report signed by all involved. In the event that the members of the Committee for Appeals and the initial examiners cannot reach consensus, they will draft a report, signed by all members, which the President of the Faculty Admission Committee shall submit to the University Admission Committee. In this case, by decision of the President of the University Admission Committee, another commission of examiners shall be formed and, upon analysing the previous notations, shall establish the definitive result which will be displayed only by order of the University Committee.
- 7.5 For the test papers conceived as grid-type assignments, "favourable resolution of the appeal" means the award of points according to the standard grid established by the Commission for Test Assignment, and the compliance with the condition that the sum of the obtained points is greater than the initial amount.
- 7.6 For the test papers conceived from traditional assignments, "favourable resolution of the appeal" means granting a grade with at least a point higher than the initial grade.
- 7.7 The University Executive Board may decide to sanction those to blame because the grades did not reflect the real value of the test paper. The sanction can be disciplinary, at the proposal of the disciplinary commission and approved by the Senate.
- 7.8 The candidate whose appeal was admitted acquires the status of "admitted" if s/he obtains a higher general average grade than the last candidate initially admitted. If s/he obtains an average grade equal to that of the last initially admitted candidate, the provisions of article 6.8 of this methodology apply. Regardless of how the appeals are resolved, the situation of those admitted before the appeals can no longer be changed.
- 7.9 After displaying the results of the appeals, the result of the admission competition is considered final and can no longer be modified.
- 7.10 In oral and practical tests, no appeals are allowed, regardless of the stage in which they were submitted.

Upon admission to study programmes taught in a modern language (English, French or German), the candidates who are Romanian or foreign citizens shall take a test of language proficiency in the language of the respective study programme. The test is eliminatory and is marked with pass/fail. The test shall be scheduled in accordance with the admission calendar established for each study program (the information will be provided on the admission platform, when selecting a programme taught in a foreign language).

The test is not necessary in the following cases: (i) the candidates passed a test of language proficiency in the teaching language of the desired programme, at the baccalaureate examination (the proof will be uploaded to the admission platform during the registration process); (ii) the candidates hold a certificate of language proficiency issued by institutions recognised by the relevant Ministry or internationally recognized certificates of language proficiency; (iii) the candidates have the nationality of a country where the official language is the language in which the desired study programme is taught or they hold study documents issued by an institution in a country where the official language is the language in which the study programme is taught.
